

HOUSE DROPPED FOUR FEET

After-Breakfast Experience of Mrs. John Lafash and Family.

Building Had Been Raised Preparatory to Construction of Stone Cellular Underneath. When (Supports) Gave Away.

Mrs. John Lafash, her four children and niece, Miss Nellie, of Springfield, Mass., who is visiting her, had a narrow escape from serious injury Tuesday morning, when their home at 7 Poplar street, which was being raised some twenty inches above the ground, suddenly dropped a distance of between four and five feet, being badly wrecked. The occupants of the house escaped without a scratch.

F. H. McCale had the job of raising the house, so that a stone cellar could be built underneath. The work had been completed and Mr. McCale was making a final inspection at 8:30 a. m. just prior to the masons beginning work, when, without warning, the foundation on one side of the house gave way, throwing the weight of the building on to the jacks supporting the east wall, and the building dropped the entire distance of four or five feet into the original cellar.

The kitchen, which is in the rear of the house, was torn apart from the building, with a tremendous smashing of crockery, and the corner of a bedroom on the southeast part of the ground floor was split open. Mrs. Lafash's twenty-month-old baby was asleep in this bedroom, which was completely wrecked, but, owing to the crib being in a corner and protected by the walls, the child was unharmed, when Joseph Lemaire, one of Mr. McCale's workmen, rushed in and rescued her. The other people in the house, who had just finished breakfast, all made their exit unhurt.

In spite of the circumstances, the upper floors of the house were comparatively unharmed, but the furnishings of the ground rooms were badly damaged. Mr. McCale, who has moved some fifteen hundred buildings of various sorts in the city, without accident, is unable to account for the wall's collapse. There was no water to undermine it, and the support of sand seemed securely packed. Mr. McCale also had the wall braced in his usual fashion. The contractor is of the opinion that some one must have undermined the wall the night before, but so far no evidence has been found to substantiate this theory.

Mrs. Lafash and her children will be the guests of Mrs. McCale for a few days until Mr. McCale can have the damage repaired.

HIS REST WAS BIDEN.

O. D. Wright, Rosemont, Neb., writes: "I was bothered with pains in the region of my kidneys. My rest was broken by frequent action of my kidneys. I was advised by my doctor to try Foley Kidney Pills and one 5-cent bottle made a well man of me." They relieve rheumatism and backache. J. W. O'Sullivan, Adv.

HEBREW HOLIDAYS.

Month of September Brings Three, Including Beginning of New Year.

The month of September is one of importance in the Jewish calendar, there being three national Hebrew holidays. Rosh Hashanah, Yom Kippur and Sukkot. The first of these, Rosh Hashanah, which marks the beginning of the Jewish New Year, begins at sunset September 8 and continues for two days. Special prayers are offered in the synagogues and all business is suspended during the feast.

The most solemn of Jewish feasts is that of Yom Kippur, which begins at sunset on September 11. Among the Jewish people this day is known as the day of atonement and people of that race are required to abstain from food throughout the day. They also are required to spend much time in the synagogues. The people pray for the remission of sins and petition that the coming year shall bring life, prosperity and peace.

At sunset September 22 begins Sukkot or the feast of the tabernacles. This feast continues for seven days. The holiday is held to commemorate the time when the children of Israel lived in the desert in tents. It is also known as the feast of the ingathering, when the harvest time in the Holy Land is over and the crops are safely gathered. Prayers of thanksgiving for the abundant harvest and for the bounty shown the people will be offered.

SCHOOLS MAY BAR CHILDREN.

Common colds are contagious and boards of health in many cities are considering barring children with colds from school. Foley's Honey and Tar is an old and reliable family medicine and frees children from colds, croup and whooping cough. Parents may save trouble by giving before school opens. J. W. O'Sullivan, Adv.

A YEAR FOR BLONDIE.

Clear Case Against Woman for Selling Liquor.

The first case to be tried by jury in municipal court under the new law which gives the municipal court greater jurisdiction was that of Violet Klavewald, which was begun Monday morning before Judge Henry Conlin of Winoski at the county court house. The woman, who is better known as "Blondie," was sentenced to serve a term of hard labor at the house of correction at Rutland of not less than ten months nor more than a year.

The jury who sat on trial in her case was out not more than ten minutes before they returned a verdict of guilty. They were: H. J. Coton of this city, M. W. Newton of Winoski, Walter Hoy, Charles F. Kilham, J. M. Safford, N. M. Murphy, Robert Taylor, Charles H. White, E. H. Hulse and Michael Leddy of Burlington, Howard Brown and Walter S. Heath of South Burlington. There is no appeal to county court from the sentence imposed by Judge Conlin.

The State introduced eight witnesses. Fred Boucher, who stated he had taken his meals at the resort of "Blondie" for a time, said he had paid for one bottle of beer there. Miranda Tatro, who resides near the home where the woman lived when the search on which trial was had was made, testified to the arrival of automobiles and men there at late hours of the night. Sheriff Allen testified as to the search and conversation he had with the woman, who stated that she had always been a sporting woman and always would be. Louis Charbonneau, who also lives near what was the woman's place, testified as to conversation he heard when she was talking with a neighbor, in which she stated that she was able to sell the "stuff" and that if a search was about to be made she would be tipped off by the officers and could skip. The testimony of several local boys that they had been to the resort and drank beer there, it having been some time paid for, the visits being made in parties ranging as high as fourteen at late hours in the night, was also given. From the testimony it was brought out that some of these lads were not of age, one being 18 years of age and another 19.

The defense did not place a witness upon the stand and following short arguments by the prosecuting officer and the attorney for the defense the case was given to the jury by that court, who charged them that the point to be considered was whether or not the woman had introduced liquor on hand with intent to sell. In about ten minutes a verdict of guilty was returned. The State's attorney brought out in his closing argument the fact that the woman had been to his office trying to fix up a deal whereby she might get off with a light sentence and that at that time she stated to him that if she was sent down for a long period of time she would come back and proceed to be as bad an actor as before.

After sentence had been declared and the judge had left the court room the woman broke out with a tirade against the prosecuting officer.

INTEREST IN STATE FAIR.

Boards of Trade Planning to Visit the Annual Exposition.

Interest in the Vermont State fair, to be held in White River Junction September 14, 15, 16 and 17, is being shown throughout the State. With the indications that coming fair will excel all previous exhibitions, a manifest desire to visit it is asserting itself among the organizations of the State. Especially is this true of the many boards of trade. These organizations are planning automobile trips to the fair, taking in the cars members of the organization as well as members of the boards.

The idea of boards of trade and similar organizations visiting the State fair was first advanced at the annual meeting of the Greater Vermont association, held last spring in Brattleboro. At this meeting resolutions were passed endorsing the movement, and since then Secretary Taylor has been in communication with the various bodies throughout the State. His canvass shows a marked interest in the plan, Burlington, St. Albans, Rutland, Bellows Falls, St. Johnsbury and many other places giving assurances of large numbers going on the trips. Montpelier has planned for 100 automobiles to make the trip.

Commissioner Wilbur of Bennington County, regarding an automobile trip to include the entire county. This will take in all the organizations of the county and it is expected to be the largest organized trip of automobiles that has ever taken place in the State.

On Tuesday, September 14, the opening day of the fair, the citizens of the town of Hartford, through James A. Stacey, will present the new public service building, now about completed, to the State of Vermont, through the State Fair commission. Secretary A. C. Board of the Windsor County V. M. C. A. will present the furnishings and equipment of the building to the State. President James B. Estee of the commission will accept the gifts for the State and the commission. This building is free to the public, planned to provide many comforts, and it is believed it will be fully appreciated.

BRADSTREET'S VERMONT WEEKLY TRADE REPORT.

Bradstreet's Burlington office reports show that the development of general business has been uneven. Manufacturers of knit goods are operating plants on short time. New business comes in slowly. Manufacturers of woodenware are in an unsettled condition in the clothing lines but in the other lines a fair amount of new business is being received. Turned wood and novelty box manufacturers are accumulating stocks to some extent. Toy manufacturers are receiving considerable new business. Some of the manufacturers in the State, in this line, are meeting with success with their new ventures. At the saw mills the stocks of lumber are accumulating. Sales of lumber are limited but prices hold about fair.

Contractors and builders are not receiving the usual amount of business although some new buildings have been permitted. Sewer and furniture manufacturers report business as only fair. The new business in the organ line is reported as coming in slowly. Manufacturers of leather report a good demand. Foodstuffs are moving about normal. Retail trade in certain sections is classed as slow. The usual white others complain of slow business. The clean-up sales with this class of merchants as well as with the clothing trade are reported as well patronized. Shoe dealers in certain instances have held clearance sales which have been reasonably well attended. The continued rains of the week have retarded the growth of corn.

Collections are still reported as below normal. Two voluntary bankruptcies and one compromise is the sum of the State failures for the week. There were less business failures in the United States for the week ending August 26, 1915, as compared with the number reported the week previous. The number was 296 and 306 respectively, while the corresponding period of a year ago gave 257.

UNTRUTHFUL JOHN.

"Why, my dear," exclaimed the good friend on finding Mrs. Newwood in floods of tears, "what is the matter?" The young wife wiped her eyes and tried to compose herself and be inhumanly calm.

"Well," she began with folded hands, "you know John is away for a week."

"Yes, dear," helped the lady friend.

"Well, he writes to me regularly, and in his last letter he tells me he gets my photo out and kisses it every day."

"That is nothing for you to cry about," exclaimed the good friend.

"Yes, it is," cried Mrs. Newwood, bursting into tears afresh, "because I took my picture out of his bag before he started just for a joke and put one of my mother's in its place."—Philadelphia Ledger.

WANTED IT LIKE FATHER'S.

There was to be a tea party, and the guests were already arriving, relates the Philadelphia Record. Mother was in despair. Little Willie was howling wildly in the nursery, crying as if his heart was broken. Running into the room, she caught the wailing boy to her, and asked what was the matter. Before she could reply Willie burst out: "Oh, mummy, she's been and got gone and buried my hair, and—ho-ho!—I wanted a c-c-rack down the middle like c-f-f-father!"

PLANT YOUR TULIP BULBS NOW

Should Be Set in the Fall Before Ground Freezes.

Narcissus Also, If Planted Now, Given Best Results—United States Department of Agriculture's Directions for Cultivation.

Washington, Aug. 31.—If you would have rich beds of tulip or give the beds or corners of your lawns a beautiful sprinkling of yellow or white glow of narcissus, daffodil and jonquil, you must begin to think of the early spring appearance of your garden in the fall, for the bulbs of these two flowers must be planted in the fall before the ground is frozen. In fact, these two flowers must be undertaken as soon as or before an early frost has begun to make the annual flowers in the beds look weakened. In dealing with narcissus, which is the family to which the daffodil and jonquil belong, it might be well to think of trying to naturalize the narcissus to grow and bloom on the lawn much as do the wild flowers. How to plant and handle the bulbs, as well as the best method of getting them to become spring residents of grassy corners, are described in the following directions issued by the bulb specialists of the United States department of agriculture:

These bulbs should be planted in light, rich soil that has been dug to a depth of at least 10 inches. The tulip bulbs should be set five inches apart and four inches deep and the narcissus bulbs about 10 inches apart and five inches deep.

If they are to be grown in pots or window boxes, light, rich soil should be used. Place one to two inches of cinders or broken pots in the bottoms of the pots or boxes to insure good drainage. After planting, place the pots or boxes out of doors and cover them with about four inches of ashes or sand, or they may be placed in a dark, cool room or cellar for a few weeks until the bulbs have formed a quantity of roots. They may then be brought into the light and heat for flowering. Keep the soil well moistened from time of planting, but avoid overwatering, for if kept too wet the bulbs will decay.

CULTIVATION.

If planted in beds, the surface of the soil should be loosened after each rain and the bed kept free from weeds. In the late fall or early winter months it is well to cover the beds with a light mulch of straw or leaves to prevent injury to the young roots from the alternate freezing and thawing of the soil. This mulch should be gradually removed in spring, as soon as growth appears above ground. The bulbs are quite hardy and are not injured by severe cold if the soil is well drained.

LIFTING AND DIVIDING.

Tulip and narcissus plants are perennial and if given proper care and grown under suitable soil and climatic conditions will increase and multiply from year to year. The bulbs may remain in the ground two or three years, or until the clumps begin to crowd. After blossoming in the spring, from six to eight weeks should elapse to allow the foliage to die partially down, when the bulbs may be lifted with a spade or fork. Shake the soil from the roots and store the bulbs in a cool, shady place where they will ripen and cure. When the old leaves and roots are thoroughly dry they may be easily rubbed off and the clusters of bulbs divided. The bulbs may then be planted in the same manner as the original bulbs. In this way the stock may be increased in a few years.

NATURALIZING THE NARCISUS.

The narcissus often becomes naturalized when planted in the soil or partial shade, where it will continue to grow, blossom, and multiply for many years without further attention. Simply make a small hole in the soil five or six inches deep, insert the bulb pointed end up, press the soil over the top, and nature will do the rest. For naturalizing, select a sunny, open or rigid geometrical space. A good plan is to scatter the bulbs like seed and plant where they fall. This method of planting is extensively followed in the home grounds and parks of England and other countries in Europe. In portions of North Carolina, on large estates along the James river in Virginia, and in old gardens in New England, narcissus have been planted over half a century ago and are still growing vigorously and every spring produce beautiful displays of blossoms.

HUNTERS GETTING READY.

Season Opens in September for Many Kinds of Game.

Many licenses for hunting in Vermont have been issued at the office of the city clerk during the past few days, the hunters evidently preparing for the opening of the seasons on the different varieties of game during September. Tuesday the season opened for taking English snipe, plover, other than woodcock, and shore birds, which may be taken from September 1 to December 1, one person being allowed to bag not more than 10 of these birds in one day. Wild deer having horns not less than three inches in length may be taken from November 15 to December 1, one person being allowed to bag not more than five deer in one day. Hares and rabbits may be taken from September 15 to March 1 and the open season on gray squirrel is the same. The season for muskrat and other extends from November 1 to May 1, the season for taking marten, raccoon, fish-cat and skunk being from October 1 to April 1. Quail may be taken from September 15 to December 1 and ruffed grouse, more commonly called partridge, may be taken from September 15 to December 1. Wild ducks, other than wood ducks, and wild geese may be taken from September 15 to January 15, there being no open season for wild pheasants, European partridge, upland plover and wood duck.

The marriage of Miss Winifred Carr Wright to Maurice Patterson Ames was solemnized August 28 at five o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin D. Wright, 56 West Ninth street, Erie, Pa. The Rev. Samuel H. Forrer, pastor of Park Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony in the presence of seventy-five guests. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Norma Wright, as bridesmaid, and Allen Ames, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. The bride's gown was of white net over charmeuse with trimming of chantilly lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilacs of the valley. The bride wore a gown of pink charmeuse with chiffon trimming and carried pink roses.

The ceremony was performed in the living room in a bower of palms and ferns with a canopy of smilax. Following the ceremony dinner was served, the decorations of the table showing the pink and white motif in the hand, some centerpiece of pink snapdragons with maidenhair fern, and the candles under pink shades, while the dining room was arranged with palms and ferns and bouquets of pink flowers opportunely placed.

Mr. Ames is a graduate of the University of Vermont in the class of 1910 and is an electrical engineer in the employ of the Burke Electrical company of Erie, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ames are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ames, parents of the groom, at 129 Buell street.

Nelson Lewis Sheldon, a Boston lawyer who came into prominence as senior counsel in the "Dakota" and "Pseudo East" Russell identity cases, and a frequent contributor to the magazines, has been appointed acting president of Norwich University. He will not give up his law practice. Mr. Sheldon was born in Vermont and received his early education in the public schools of this State.
